Far Hills Head of School Speaks on Education Panel

Far Hills, NJ – J. Thomas Woelper, Head of School at Far Hills Country Day School (Far Hills), spoke on the American Revolution 2.0 Education Panel: “Imagine what education Could Be in America?” on May 7, 2017, at the Morristown and Morris Township Library.

During the panel, a range of topics were presented—from vouchers and charter schools to the Benedictine model at St. Benedict’s School in Newark (and more broadly the challenges of urban education) to the mission-driven program offered at Far Hills. The forum was a true model of what civil society should be.

Far Hills administration, faculty and staff often participate in expert education panels in Central New Jersey. For a more comprehensive list of the accomplishments of our administration, faculty and staff, please visit the Media Hub of our website at <http://www.fhcds.org/campus-life/media-hub>.

Far Hills is a PreK-grade eight private school in New Jersey that teaches students how to learn, not what to learn, through an innovative curriculum emphasizing personalization, differentiation, and individualization in instruction. Through solid academics plus life skills, Far Hills graduates lifelong learners who possess a can-do attitude that they carry into secondary school and life.

For additional information about the school, please visit our website at www.fhcds.org or contact Megan Collyer, Director of Strategic Marketing & Communications at mcollyer@fhcds.org or 908.766.0622 x1427.
